LANGUAGE ACCESS IS A CIVIL RIGHT PROTECTED BY FEDERAL LAW

Many understand the responsibility to make services accessible and welcoming to people with physical challenges, most are unsure about our responsibilities for those who speak a language other than English.

The Wyoming Department of Health, Office of Health Equity, in collaboration with the Wyoming State Network For Language Access (WYSNLA), is pleased to announce its Spring 2019 Community Outreach Webinar Series:

OCR is committed to educating communities about civil rights, health information privacy rights, conscience and religious freedom laws, and patient safety confidentiality laws.

Community members, health and human service agencies, healthcare providers, law enforcement, education and concerned citizens are invited to learn together in a series of community discussions that will focus on language access rights, and will touch on other civil rights and protections as well.

Know your responsibilities!

All webinars will be lead by Ian Shippo, JD, United States Department of Health and Human Services, Office for Civil Rights (OCR), Supervisory Investigator.
