Human Trafficking: Spotlight on Exploitation

Presented by Alexie LeZion, Elizabeth Champlain and Michela Telford

Lessons for Public Health

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention considered human trafficking “a serious public health program that negatively affects the well-being of individuals, families, and communities”.

Human trafficking is preventable. It is important for public health practitioners to be aware of the signs of human trafficking and to know what resources are available in our community.

Learning Objectives

Participants will learn to:

- Recognize trafficking trends in the United States.
- Learn how to respond to a human trafficking situation.
- Identify resources for both professionals and victims.

About the speakers: Alexie LeZion is a survivor of human trafficking and a survivor’s voice for victims. She has a Bachelor’s Degree in Psychology with a minor in Leadership and serves as a member of the Human Trafficking Task Force for the State of Wyoming. Alexie has chosen to dedicate her life to help speak out about human trafficking, raise awareness at events, and educate the public.

Alexie joins Forensic Nurse Examiners Elizabeth Champlain and Michela Telford for today’s presentation. Elizabeth is a board certified Forensic Nurse Examiner and Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner at Cheyenne Regional Medical Center. Michaela is a Forensic Nurse Examiner and an Emergency Nurse at Ivinson Memorial Hospital. Full bios for all three speakers are available on the Office of Health Equity website under Health Equity Trainings.
